Ed Flach's Prayer

Teach me that eixty minutes mak one hour sixteen ounces one pound and one hundred cents one dollar.

Help me to live so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience. without a gun under my pillow, and unbaunted by the faces of those to whom I have brought pain.

Grant, I bessech Thee, that I may earn my meal ticket on the square and in doing thereof that I may not stick the gaff where it does not be-somey and the rustle of unboly skirt-. Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me mine own.

Guide me so that each night when I look scroes the disper table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal.

Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and to lose myself in their play.

And then when comes the small of flowers, and the treed of soft steps, and the crosbing of heares's wheels in the gravel out in front of my place. make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple:

"HERE LIFS A MAN."

Teaching the Angels to Fly at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition course angels fly That's why they have wings. A visit to the Panama-International Exposition at San Francisco any day that the winged ladies are taking their places on the roots of the exhibit palaces will be convincing if the accompanying photograph does not serve that purpose. The particular winged indies in question are called "the acroteria." There are to be thirty-two of them distributed about the various exhibit pal-aces. They are thirteen feet in height and weigh about 1.400 pounds; hence the presence of the locomotive crane to assist in their flight to the roofs of the buildings.
